CURE GIVEN A TEST

Italian Physician Perfecting Cure For Tuberculosis.

IODINE USED IN TREATMENT

American Consul Tells What Professor Levi and Associates Have Discovered of the Especial Value of Iodine, in Treatment of Consumption.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Consul Dunning, of Milan, has received numerous communications from the United States in regard to a reported cure for tuberculosis discovered by Professor Levi of Milan, and writes as follows regarding the matter.

A great deal of interest having been aroused throughout the world by the report that Professor Levi, of Milan, Italy, has perfected a cure for tuberculosis in both animals and human, I believe it proper to make a statement in order that the hopes of those suffering with consumption, and their friends, may not be too greatly aroused or too positively gratified by the belief that they are about to receive a sure and lasting cure. In the last few weeks I have received countless letters from America asking for further information of Professor Levi's investigations, based on newspaper reports printed in the United States, and on indefinite hints sent by consuls in other countries, who have heard indirectly of the experiments going on here. All my correspondents evidently believe the long-wished for remedy has been found.

The fact seems to be, that Professor Levi, whom I believe to be a careful and conservative scientist, has been experimenting for a more or less extended period with iodine, following and extending certain lines of study which for many years have engaged the attention of Italian men of medicine. For a long time it has been a common belief among a group of the most advanced Italian scientists, that iodine, properly transformed, could be used successfully to attack tuberculosis in men and animals. The difficulty has been in the process of transformation by which the iodine is rendered suitable for injection or inoculation. Professor Levi's experiments have dealt solely with this process and his "secret" lies in the character of the treatment which he applies to the drug. He believes he has discovered the right mixture. Whether or not he has done so, remains to be seen, both by himself and the public.

Only long and exquisitely cautious experiments can give the proofs, which medical science will rigidly exact, and which Professor Levi himself insists on obtaining before he makes any further statement regarding his work. He will not undertake to create among sufferers with tuberculosis hopes which his later labors may show to have been in vain, and he declines to endanger his own reputation by claiming at this critical stage of his work results which the final tests may not wholly justify.

Meantime, Professor Levi is working steadily toward the ultimate trials of his discovery, and promises to give the world the result of his labors at the earliest possible time. He has apprised the king of Italy of his intentions and has received the encouragement of the court. Continental physicians are generally awaiting his formal announcements. At the moment this is made I shall communicate with the Department of State and until that time, I advise Americans who for any reasons are interested in the "cure" to join with Professor Levi himself in hoping for the best, without placing too much faith on what is at present an uncertain outcome.

WILL MAKE ATTACK ON HAWAIIAN MOSQUITOS

Stanford Man is Commissioned by Hawaiian Government to Lead Campaign Stanford University, Sept. 10.—The Government of Hawaii, having undertaken to destroy the troublesome foreign mosquitos that infest the island through the agency of fishes, has commissioned a Stanford man to do the work. Alvin Seale, a zoology student, who will receive his degree in a few days will do the work, which is attracting wide interest among the scientists of the country. The Hawaiian government has decided to import a species of fish known as the poeciliidae, which thrives in the mudholes and bayous of the southern United States, the breeding place of mosquitos. In their native home these fishes breed very rapidly, and destroy vast numbers of mosquitos. Whether they will continue this work of destruction in Hawaiian waters is not certain.

Seale is at present in Louisiana experimenting with the poeciliidae to determine the best means of transporting them to the islands. They will be placed in the fresh water streams and lakes. Seale has done considerable important fish work in the past. He was for some time curator of the Bishop Museum of Honolulu, and for three years traveled about the South Seas collecting for it. Last year he worked with David Starr Jordan in fishes.

NEW CHINESE TREATY

Japan Concludes Secret Treaty With Celestial Empire.

WILL REORGANIZE ARMY

Simultaneously With the Anglo-Japanese Treaty One Was Also Concluded Between China and Japan—Japan Will Reorganize and Officer Chinese Army.

Berlin, Sept. 10.—The "Freisige Zeitung" is authority for the declaration that a secret treaty between Japan and China was concluded simultaneously with the signing of the Anglo-Japanese treaty. By this agreement China undertakes to maintain an efficient standing army of 400,000 men and this army will be increased annually by the addition of 50,000 soldiers. China will bear the entire cost of supporting this army, but Japan will furnish the necessary officers to command the troops, thereby guaranteeing that they shall be kept up to a proper standard of efficiency. China also promises to maintain a proportionate number of army reservists which will be organized by Japan.

The "Zeitung" after giving the terms of this secret treaty, remarks that it gives Japan absolute control of the Chinese empire and transforms the Mikado into a world's dictator.

TOSHOW FAMOUS COW

Fair Queen, Champion Shorthorn Will Be at Portland Fair.

IS WINNER OF MANY PRIZES

Highest Class of Cattle in the United States Will be Shown at the Great Stock Show to be Held at Portland From Sept. 19 to 29—Some Facts Concerning Them.

Portland, Sept. 10.—Fair Queen, champion of many fairs, and as a cow which has never been beaten, entitled to rank as one of the greatest show cows living, is entered in the shorthorn class at the stock show which is to be held at the Lewis and Clark exposition from September 19 to 29. Fair Queen took championship honors at the World's Fair at St. Louis last year, and also at the International Livestock shows held at Chicago in 1903 and 1904 and at the American Royal Show at Kansas City in the same years. She is the holder also of various premiums won at leading state fairs all over the country.

"In the shorthorn show the class of cattle will be the highest in the United States," said H. D. Wisdom, livestock superintendent at the Exposition. "It will be a show of great quality and one that people cannot afford to miss. The northern show in general will be equal to any show ever held in America, of this breed of cattle.

"In the Holstein class," continued the superintendent, "the Hazelwood farm Company, of Spokane, has entered 20 head of show stock chosen from 70 head which the company purchased in Wisconsin. These are the best of the class to be found. They will compete against the world's champion herd of the Pierce Land and Stock Company, of California, a herd which is without question the finest in the world. The Pierce Land and Stock Company imported 40 head from Holland, last year and the bull that heads the herd is one of the importation. He is considered the finest bull of the breed living today. Besides these two herds, John B. Irvin of Wisconsin, who won at St. Louis, last year, and P. A. Frakes, of Oregon, who also owns St. Louis prize winners, will show at the fair.

"In Jersey's there will be shown a fine and select herd from the Hazel Fern farm owned by the W. S. Ladd estate. This is one of the finest herds of Jerseys in the world, and the stock sent to the show ring will be the very finest specimens of the breed procurable anywhere. In competition with the Hazel Fern herd will be the herd of Dr. Still, of Missouri, which was prominent among first prize winners at St. Louis last year and which has been recuperated in size and merit. Besides these two there will be a number of local herds of quality, including those of Harry West, D. H. Looney, A. C. Martin B. Altman and Atkinson Brothers, all of Oregon. In sheep, swine and goats, all the prominent breeds will be represented by the finest type of animals."

The sheds for the Stock Show on the Government Peninsula, at the Exposition, are nearing completion. They are of improved style, in every way adapted to the purpose. Everything will be in readiness for the stock show several days before Sept. 19 the opening day, and prospects are good for a remarkably large attendance from Pacific Coast States.
